Ferrari in command of University

by David Sigworth
News staff reporter

With the death of University President Dr. Hollis Moore Jr. Sunday, the Board of Trustees faces the task of naming a new president. Its action last month, however, prepared the administration to function during an absence of a president.

At its March 12 meeting, the board adopted a resolution naming the provost/ executive vice president as the chief academic administrator of the University when the president is absent.

The resolution further states that the delegation of authority would move to the vice president in the absence of the provost/ executive vice president.

Thus, Dr. Michael Ferrari has been acting as chief academic administrator for more than a month.

FERRARI, a professor of management and sociology, earned his bachelor's, master's and doctoral degrees from Michigan State University.

After working in various positions at Michigan State, the University of Cincinnati and Kent State University, Ferrari came to the University in 1971 as coordinator of planning and budgeting. He became acting provost for the 1972-73 academic year and vice president of resource planning the following year.

Moore appointed him provost in May of 1978. In August of the same year, with the reorganization of the provost's office, Ferrari was given the added role of executive vice president.

BEHIND FERRARI in succession of authority is Richard Edwards, University vice president. Edwards also serves as secretary to the Board of Trustees.

A graduate of Kent State University with a bachelor's degree in journalism, as well as a master's degree in political science, Edwards worked as a legislative assistant to former U.S. Congressman Charles Mosher of Oberlin, Ohio, from 1961-64.

Before coming to the University in 1971, he worked in administrative roles at Kent State and as special assistant to the director of the National Science Foundation in Washington, D.C.

Custar couple has clocks, children to occupy their time

by Dave Whitman
News staff reporter

Rick and Pat Reichenbaugh's house in Custar, Ohio, is a very special place.

It is a big, white country house, with lots of land out back. There's a brightly colored stone path leading from the gravel driveway to the porch.

When you walk in the house and meet Rick Reichenbaugh, he grips your hand in his own big, friendly hands, with long, yellowing nails that help him to handle the delicate tools of his trade.

Just off the living room is Rick's Clock Shop. He invites you in, and asks you to sit down.

On the floor there are antique mantle clocks. Against the right-hand wall there is a large wooden clock that Rick says he built himself using hand tools.

ON THE LIVING ROOM shelves and on the walls there are more clocks, and pictures of the Reichenbaughs' three sons, all grown up now.

From the back of the house comes the laughter of a little girl.

Rick leans over his work table, handling watch and clock parts as small as grains of sand. He and Pat, he explains, are foster parents to multiply handicapped children, and that's five-year-old Heather laughing in the back room.

"This is a unique house," said Pat Reichenbaugh. "It's designed for kids. It's big and private and quiet and serene."

Having Rick's repair shop in their home is an asset, too, Pat said, because he is always around to lend a hand with the children.

"I DON'T KNOW of any other job that would allow him to do this," Pat said. "It kind of all fits together—the house, the shop, the kid."

Pat said she and Rick always wanted a large family, and they started investigating the possibilities of adoption and foster parenthood about 10 years ago.

"Foster care just sort of rung a bell," Pat said.

Rick Reichenbaugh, with craftsman's hands and fine tools, works on one of the many antique watches he repairs each year. He claims his job as a

The Reichenbaughs started taking care of handicapped kids by "sort of falling into it," Pat said. "I had had some nurse's training before. We were only supposed to have the (first) child for a weekend. . . The child ended up staying with us for months."

There are three children staying at the Reichenbaughs. Larry, 13, is a deaf-mute and also has cerebral palsy. Heather, 5, is autistic and also has cerebral palsy. Raymond, 9, is an epileptic.

"NOT EVERYONE can care for children like these," Pat said. "We found we could care for them. So we do."

"Foster care means dealing most of all with a child's feelings," Pat said. "Feelings are what we deal with constantly. It takes a lot of time."

There is a knock on the door.

clock repairman is a dying trade, because people would rather throw a broken clock away than get it repaired.

Rick comes out of the shop to answer it, and in walks a customer inquiring about a timepiece he left for Rick to fix.

"MY JOB AS A clock repairman is a dying trade," Rick said, shaking his head. "People don't care about quality anymore. They make things to break and then throw them away."

"I like to take pieces that don't work right anymore," Rick said.

"Then I fix them up and get them working again."

Rick said the older he gets, the more valuable he gets, because he increases his storehouse of knowledge.

"I'm going to keep on doing this as long as I can," he said, gesturing toward the workshop and the back rooms where Pat is playing with the children. "After all, it's my life."

Cooke hurts black writers

WASHINGTON (AP) -- A Washington Star editor who served on the panel which awarded a Pulitzer Prize to Janet Cooke of the Washington Post for a story later exposed as a fabrication said yesterday that she had done great injury "to blacks in newsrooms all over the country."

Roger Wilkins, an associate editor of Star, declared in a column that "The essence of journalism is to tell the clearest truths we can see to our readers. But we blacks are distrusted by many white editors who doubt our perceptions, our judgment and our ability to be fair and accurate."

COOKE, A 26-year-old black reporter with the Post, won the prize in feature writing for "Jimmy's World," which told of an 8-year-old heroin addict.

After questions about her academic resume and other doubts were raised, Cooke admitted to her editors that Jimmy did not exist. She resigned from the paper and the Post returned the prize.

WILKINS, WHO served on the Pulitzer advisory board which overrode the recommendations of a selection jury and moved the story to a different category in order to give it the prize, said he had been questioned in some quarters as to whether he had romantic ties with Cooke. That, he said, "is baloney."

"I got a nasty whiff of what was going on. . . when a Post reporter got me on the phone and asked me point blank whether I had a relationship with Cooke, 'personal or otherwise,'" he wrote.

"A friend called my wife to warn her that a story was circulating that I had known about the doubts that many of the blacks in the Post's newsroom had harbored about Cooke's story and that in championing the story in the board's deliberations, I had failed to disclose that information," Wilkins said.

"Well, the strongest word I can use for all that in a family newspaper is baloney," he said.

Six candidates on election ballot for UAO director-at-large position

by Kyle Silvers
News staff reporter

The University Activities Organization director-at-large will be elected today, despite the cancellation of Student Government Association elections.

Six candidates are competing for the position, which has two functions, Co-Director-At-Large Margie Grim said.

The director-at-large serves as an executive officer who selects, trains and advises committee directors and also serves as a "liaison" between UAO and other organizations and individuals, she said.

SOME OF THE candidates expressed concern about low voter turnout, due to the canceled SGA elections.

Candidate Dave Anderson said he expects a decrease in voter turnout.

"I definitely think it's going to be low. It's too bad it had to happen this way," he said.

Anderson has been involved in UAO for two years, serving on the exhibits committee and as the director of Side Door entertainment.

He said he would like all "open lines of communication" between students and UAO and expects input from students about the kinds of events and movies they would like to have on campus.

Senior Steve Bryan currently is UAO director of special events, and has organized UAO-sponsored functions, including the McGuffey Lane concert, the Danny Green lift-a-thon, and

HE EXPLAINED that one problem he would like to correct is UAO's handling of concert ticket sales, demonstrated by the recent rampant for Stanley Band tickets. He said he would begin a major survey to investigate the best way to publicize concerts and distribute tickets.

Sophomore Joe Hucke is a member of the news views and lectures committee and has been involved in UAO for one year.

"I feel I'm able to represent the students and plus I feel motivated enough to keep myself involved," he said, adding that he hopes to see more student involvement in UAO.

JUNIOR SCOTT JEFFERS is the current UAO director-at-large and has been involved with UAO for three years. He also is a member of the news, views and lectures committee.

Jeffers said he would not like to make many changes, but would like to improve existing programs.

"The director-at-large hasn't had enough continuity in the past," he said, adding that he could "take a more realistic attitude of the position as to what can be done and should be done."

Debbie Schultz, UAO director of travel, has been a UAO member for the past three years.

"I've been active in UAO and I've seen some of the things UAO can do," she said, adding that she would like to use UAO as a campus resource and have "diversified and varied programming in the future."

MARY KAY ZAJAC, a junior, has been involved in UAO for the last three years. She served two years on the public relations committee and devoted one year to campus films.

Zajac said she expects voter turnout to be affected by the absence of SGA elections. "I think it probably will hurt because there hasn't been much publicity about it," she said.

Students may vote from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. today at the Side Door of the Union, the Commuter Center or the Student Services Forum.

The service also can be seen on Channel 7 in all dormitory lounges.

U.S. urges Japan to cut auto exports

TOKYO (AP) - Government officials are pressuring Japan's automakers for a 7 percent voluntary cutback in exports to the United States to stave off protectionist moves in Congress, a respected financial newspaper reported yesterday.

But the auto chiefs were reported by Kyodo News Service to be resisting the 1.7 million vehicle limit, a reduction of 120,000 cars and light trucks from 1980 exports totaling 1.82 million. Kyodo said they favored an agreement limiting exports to the 1980 level.

Government and auto company executives yesterday would not discuss their closed-door talks, which the economic daily Nihon Keizai Shimbun reported were in progress. The Ministry of International Trade and Industry confirmed it had summoned the auto executives to separate talks, but officials refused further comment and auto industry spokesmen said they were pledged to silence.

THE NEWSPAPER said officials from three automakers - Honda Motor Co., Mitsubishi Motors Corp. and Fuji Heavy Industries - took part in talks yesterday, and that others would be called in today and Thursday in hopes the ministry can take a compromise offer to the Reagan administration in Washington next week.

The newspaper said Toyota and Nissan makers of Datsun Motors, heavyweights in the industry here, and Toyo-Kogyo, would be called in for the subsequent meetings.

Kyodo News Service, quoting unidentified sources, said the executives argued they would be willing to hold exports to 1.82 million but go no further. The company officials also were quoted by Kyodo as saying the limits should be for just one year.

IN WASHINGTON Sen. John Danforth, R-Mo., is pushing for passage of his bill to limit Japanese auto imports to 1.6 million units a year for the next three years. The Republican controlled Senate could vote on the measure as early as next month.

President Reagan and Prime Minister Zenko Suzuki are scheduled for a summit meeting May 7 and 8. Officials in both governments are trying to resolve the issue so as not to cast a shadow over their meeting.

Japan's automakers have said the beleaguered U.S. auto industry brought demand by Americans for fuel-efficient cars.

JAPAN LAST year captured 21 percent of the total auto sales in the United States. Eight of every 10 foreign-made cars bought by Americans were Japanese.

Supporters of protectionist measures argue Japan has been able to garner such a huge share of the market because of lower labor costs.

Last year, General Motors, Ford, Chrysler and AMC, the big four U.S. automakers, reported losses totaling $4.2 billion, their worst year in history. As of last week, 170,000 autoworkers were on indefinite layoffs.

Zimbabwe student guilty of resisting arrest

by Paul O'Donnell
News staff writer

A Municipal Court jury found a University student guilty yesterday of resisting arrest in a Jan. 23 incident in which the student claimed excessive force was used by the arresting police officers.

Siyano Mukonoweshuro, 29, 420 S. Main St., was fined $25 and placed on a one-year probation by Acting Judge Jerome Hock. The all-white jury, composed of four men and four women, deliberated for about 90 minutes before reaching the guilty verdict.

Yesterday's retrial on the resisting arrest charge, a second-degree misdemeanor, resulted from a mistrial March 31 when a hung jury returned a 7-1 deadlock in favor of conviction. Hock earlier ruled that Mukonoweshuro was innocent of the driving with an obstructed view charge.

MUKONOWESHURO, an international student from Zimbabwe, was granted a two-week stay on payment of the fine because he is indigent.

Mukonoweshuro was stopped by city police while driving home from a downtown bar. He claimed police officers physically abused and threatened to deport him after he refused to accept a traffic ticket.

Several contradictions surfaced in the testimonies of Mukonoweshuro and the arresting police officer, Sgt. Dennis Joseph. Two other police officers who assisted Joseph in the arrest, Thomas Brokamp and Mark Nelson, also testified.

A main bone of contention among the defense and prosecution was whether Mukonoweshuro exited Joseph's patrol car without the citation in an attempt to flee the scene.

WOOD COUNTY Public Defender Adrian Cimerman, Mukonoweshuro's attorney, contended the defendant left the patrol car in an attempt to draw the police officer to a snowbank he allegedly brushed.

But City Prosecutor Warren Lotz argued, "When he (Mukonoweshuro) exited the car, what direction did he go? The opposite direction. Was he going back to look at the scene or leave the scene? The reasonable person would conclude but one thing—he wasn't going to stick around."

It was established in testimony that Mukonoweshuro exited the patrol car and began walking toward his vehicle, which was parked directly in front of the patrol car near the 400 block of South Main Street. The snowbank Mukonoweshuro allegedly struck was about 150 yards north of the parked patrol car.

While Joseph was writing the citation and before Mukonoweshuro left the patrol car, Joseph testified that "the defendant seemed to get aggravated with me and asked if I thought he was some dumb African." Mukonoweshuro said it was Joseph who became aggravated.

JOSEPH SAID he attempted to apprehend and handcuff the defendant after he left the patrol car, but added that Mukonoweshuro's hands were in his coat pockets and could not be removed.

Officers Nelson and Brokamp responded and both testified that Joseph was sitting on top of the defendant's buttocks when they arrived. Brokamp said he placed his knee on Mukonoweshuro's neck, while Nelson said he was kneeling on the ground in front of the defendant.

ALL THREE officers admitted that Mukonoweshuro did not shout obscenities at them or struggle, with the exception of not removing his hands from his coat.

"He wasn't struggling. There's no dispute over that. He wasn't cursing. There's no dispute over that. At that point (before he was handcuffed), he wasn't resisting arrest unless you want to believe he kept his hands in his pockets to avoid arrest," Cimerman told the jury in his closing arguments.

The prosecution needed to show beyond a reasonable doubt that Mukonoweshuro "recklessly or by force interfered with his own arrest."

It also was established in testimony that Mukonoweshuro cooperated in getting out of his car, taking several sobriety tests and going with Joseph to the police car. But there was conflicting testimony from that point until when Mukonoweshuro was taken to the police station.

Another point Cimerman vehemently contested was what he termed an effort by the police officers "to synchronize their stories." Joseph and Nelson admitted reading the transcript of the first trial to refresh their memories.

University student Siyano Mukonoweshuro and his attorney Adrian Cimerman react to Siyano's conviction for resisting arrest charges. Siyano contended that Bowling Green city police used excessive force when arresting him Jan. 23.

Bowling Green freshman Scott Creel and sophomore Dave Agosta compete in the steeplechase during yesterday's dual meet with Toledo. BG defeated the Rockets, 88-75.

Falcons trim UT, 88-75

by Joey Magill
News staff reporter

Bowling Green's men's track team defeated Toledo, 88-75, yesterday, in a meet the Falcons dedicated to Hollis A. Moore.

All of the BG runners wore black ribbons attached to their jerseys in memory of the late University president. The idea to dedicate the meet to the late Moore was that of senior co-captain Jeff Brown.

"When I was in high school, our cross country coach's wife died, and we did the same thing," Brown said. "It's a motivation for us to run in his memory."

The Falcons did indeed perform as a motivated squad. They soundly defeated Toledo, in what was expected to be a closer meet.

"THE RUNNING events went just about as we expected," BG coach Tom Wright said. "Our field events people performed better than we had hoped and that's why we won the meet."

Bowling Green was led by co-captain Terry Reedus' two victories. Reedus won the 400-meter dash in 48.63 and the 400-intermediate hurdles in 53.20.

"It feels great to be a double winner," Reedus said. "That's the first quarter I've ever won, so I'm really happy. I feel that if I had run the hurdles first, I could have been around 51 seconds, which is well under my best."

THE FALCONS WON, despite capturing first place in only eight events. BG was able to outscore the Rockets because of better depth.

Kelly Lyman also was a double winner in taking both of the horizontal jumps. He leaped 21-1/4 in the long jump and 42-10 1/4 in the triple jump. BG swept the long jump with James Rhoades second in 20-9 and Mark Hudak third in 20-3 1/4.

Chuck Pullom won the 1500 run with a time of 3:52.8. Teammate Brown was second with a 3:53.35. Dudley Cramer lead a sweep of the pole vault by clearing 14-0. Tom Coulon was second and Kevin Siebert was third, as both cleared 13-6.

BG also swept the javelin, with Bill Hampton the winner. His throw was 179-10. Cramer was second and Siebert third. Their distances were 165-3 and 151-1, respectively. Dan Salkow and Fred Morrison placed 1-2 in the high jump, both clearing 6-4.

Jeff Martin finished in second place with a 14:43 clocking in the 5,000-meter run. Chris Koehler was third in the same race with a time of 14:50.

KEANE O'MALLEY lead the Bowling Green weight crew by placing in all three events. He was second in the hammer with a toss of 133-9 1/2. He threw the shot 42-2 1/4 and the discus 123-1, both good for third place.

Rick Vollmer was second in the discus with a 132-10 toss and third in the hammer with a throw of 125-1. Dean Hall rounded out the effort by tossing a second-place throw of 45-5 1/4 in the shot put.

Mark Vermillion took second in the 110 high hurdles with a time of 14.91. Lyman was third with a 15.62 clocking. Dave Agosta ran a 9:14.56 in the steeplechase to finish second. Jim Wilkins leapt 42-1/2 in the triple jump to also place second.

Women blank ONU...

Bowling Green's women's tennis team did not lose a set in routing Ohio Northern, 9-0, yesterday, at the Robert Keefe Courts. The victory pushed the team's record to 7-1.

The match gave BG coach Deb Kurkiewicz a chance to rest her starters and test the reserves in a competitive situation.

"Chris (Bischoff) is over her injury, Steph (Tober) is feeling better, and Joni (Lindquist) is hitting the ball very well," Kurkiewicz said. "I think we will be in good shape this weekend (in the Mid-American Conference tournament)."

Kristina Coleman is also playing well after recovering from a severe ankle sprain which sidelined her for almost two months, Kurkiewicz added. "I would like Kristina and Martha (Goth) to play third doubles in the MAC tournament, but I don't know if they will be able to since I didn't list them on my original team roster," Kurkiewicz said. "They will definitely travel."

COLEMAN AND GOTH won their doubles match against ONU's Joanne Roebuck-Sue Maslowski 6-0, 6-2. The other doubles matches had Cindy Scheper-Chris Bischoff over Tammy Hanning-Lori Kinnison 6-0, 6-4; and Sally Creasap-Linda Schultz over Sandy Calvert-Lisa Bumbaugh 6-3, 6-1.

In singles action, Scheper defeated Hanning 6-2, 6-2; Linda Ensign beat Kinnison 6-1, 6-0; Tober crushed Roebuck 6-0, 6-0; Amy Bottorff downed Bumbaugh 6-1, 6-4; Lindquist defeated Calvert 6-1, 6-2; and Jamie Guerra beat Brenda Raffath 6-2, 6-1.

The match gave the Falcons a chance to experiment with new strategy in their matches, Kurkiewicz said. "I wanted them to try a few things they don't usually do," she said. "I wanted them to serve and volley a little more, and to just be aggressive, especially the baseliners."

The players said that the opportunity to experiment against a weaker opponent helped them in adding new dimensions to their games.

"It really helped my confidence, and I went for shots that I wouldn't normally go for," Bottorff said. "I approached the net at every opportunity. I hope to keep that in my game from now on."

"Using the serve and volley worked well because they weren't really returning well," Goth said. "We were able to pressure them more, and we felt more in control."

...Buckeyes blast men

"We just got beat by a better team," Bowling Green men's tennis coach Bob Gill said of BG's loss to Big Ten power Ohio State, yesterday, in Columbus.

The Falcons dropped the meet 8-1, as their record slipped to 9-5.

"If we expect to win at all this weekend (when the Falcons host four teams), we will have to play better doubles than we did," Gill said.

BG won only one set in three doubles matches, as OSU's Jack Kohls-Jerry Lowe defeated Barry Conlan-Rick Bechtel 6-7, 6-2, 6-1; Emer Capulong-Casey McClure downed Bud Vetter-Alan Benson 6-1, 6-2; and Peter Braun-Jim Kohls beat Dave Epstein-Mike Zekas 6-3, 6-1.

In singles, OSU all-America Ernie Fernandez beat Bechtel 6-1, 6-2; Conlan won BG's only match with a 6-1, 4-6, 6-3 decision over Reino Jokinen; Leor Rusinek outlasted Vetter 2-6, 7-6, 6-4; Peter Braun downed Epstein 6-3, 6-3; Jim Kohls defeated Benson 6-0, 6-1; and Jim Hendrix beat Eric Hoecker 7-6, 6-3.

Too little, too late for unsuspecting BG baseball squad

by Joe Menzer
News assistant sports editor

Ashland may not be a well-known collegiate baseball team, but the Eagles made their presence felt yesterday at Steller Field, winning the first game of a twinbill with Bowling Green, 8-6, and tying the nightcap, 3-3, in nine innings, before two frigid umpires decided to call it quits.

The Falcons dropped to 12-15-1 overall, while Ashland is 7-9-1. BG's doubleheader today scheduled with Wright State has been postponed.

Yesterday's second game ended amid controversy. As BG took the field for the tenth inning, umpires abruptly called the game, not because of darkness, but because they were cold.

"We were disappointed with their decision, both teams were," BG coach Don Purvis said. "We've never had that happen before."

BOOTED GROUND BALLS, costly mental errors and misplayed flyballs by the Falcons added to Purvis' disappointment.

"In baseball, anything can happen, and when you don't come to play, you pay the price. We didn't come prepared to play today, and we got about what we deserved," Purvis said.

Ashland jumped to a 5-0 lead by scoring in each of the first four innings of the opener.

An error, a passed ball and a single to center by Eagle catcher Dan Phillip off BG's Dan McHugh gave Ashland a 1-0 lead in the first.

A walk, a double by Jim Spettie, an errant throw by BG rightfielder Bob Zielinski and a perfectly executed suicide squeeze increased the Eagle lead to 3-0 after two innings.

AFTER SINGLE runs in the third and fourth innings had stretched the Ashland's lead to 5-0, the Falcons decided to start playing ball, according to Purvis.

"In the first game, we were not mentally prepared to play. We fell behind, 5-0, due to some careless play before we decided to start playing," he said. "By the time we got back in the game, it was too late. We gave up a couple walks and one big hit and we were back down by five."

BG cut the Ashland lead to 5-3 with one run in the fourth and two more in the fifth, but the Eagles erupted for three runs in the sixth to make it 8-3.

After hits by Dave Litzenberg and Steve Schultze and an Ashland error loaded the bases in the bottom of the inning, Phil Oropallo and pinch-hitter Gary Huffman ripped back-to-back singles to clear the bases and cut the lead back to two runs.

But Ashland reliever Scott Rosenberg retired the next five Falcons in a row to preserve the victory for starter Bob Conrad. McHugh, who had not pitched since BG's Florida trip, took the loss.

ASHLAND JUMPED on top in the second game, when Tom Charleton's flyball to rightfield was lost in the sun by Zielinski and dropped in for a leadoff double in the second inning. A bunt single and a double play scored Charleton.

The lead exchanged hands two more times before the Falcons tied it for good in the bottom of the sixth. Chris Schuping led off the inning with a double, went to third on a single by Dave Anderson, and scored when Joe Tedesco hit into a double play.

The game remained tied, 3-3, until the umpires called it after nine innings.

Two bright spots for the Falcons in the doubleheader were the return to action of outfielder Zielinski, who had two hits in the opener, and pitcher John Leovich, who started and pitched four and a third innings in the second game.

Miami tackles ruggers in MAC finals; women beat OU

Bowling Green's "A" and "B" rugby teams each advanced to the finals of the Mid-American Conference championships here last weekend, before losing to Miami's "A" and "B" teams, 7-4, 14-0.

The Falcon "A" team won two and lost one in the senior division to advance to the final. BG lost to Miami, 8-4, in the first round, but came back to defeat Ohio University, 3-0, and Central Michigan, 4-0 in overtime, to earn the rematch in the finals against MU.

Dennis Snook's penaltykick at the final whistle game BG its victory over OU. Greg Westerveld's try in overtime decided the outcome against CMU.

Keven Frotz had one try in each game against the Redskins, but it was not enough.

BG's "B" team rolled to victories over Kent State (42-3), Ball State (16-3), and Miami (16-3) to gain the finals of the junior division. MU avenged its earlier loss to the Falcons, however, as Matt Brammer scored all 14 points.

Barry Plunkett led the "B" team scoring on the day with six penalty kicks and six conversions. Mitch Leach had four successful tries.

The Falcon ruggers, 10-5-2, host Sandusky and Defiance this weekend at College Park Field.

Bowling Green's women's rugby team won the only match played in the women's division last weekend, defeating Ohio University 8-4 in overtime. Sylvia Smythe and Lori Lawrence scored tries for the Falcons.

SENIOR CHALLENGE '81: Saying 'Thanks' BGSU for the good times!!

Sunday evening the College of Musical Arts lost a friend and advocate with the death of Dr. Hollis Moore.

As a college we have benefited greatly from his energetic leadership and support. As individuals we have been touched by his personal interest in our work and his pleasure in our successes.

Dr. Moore was a builder—a man dedicated to the development of mind, body, and spirit. His legacy in academic buildings, the Recreation Center and the Musical Arts Center is an affirmation of that dedication. We shall miss him and we mourn his passing from us.
